Techniques for Success

for educators and parents!

SATURDAY, NOVEMBER 14, 2015 – 8 AM TO 4 PM
HOLIDAY INN, 5400 HOLIDAY DRIVE, FREDERICK, MD

The TFS conference provides practical strategies for educating students with Down syndrome and other special needs.

The new format for 2015 includes a keynote and breakout sessions, and combines educators and parents for a full-day conference!

Conference details:

- Nationally-known experts Patti McVay and parent Laurie Pacht will present on Inclusive Best Practices, Strength-Based IEPs, and Paraprofessionals: Defining Roles & Responsibilities.
- Pam Booth will offer two sessions on Teaching Math to Students with Down Syndrome, one for Pre-K to Grade 1 and one for Grades 2 to 6.
- Jeanne Dwyer, Chris Swanson, Kristy Calo and Christine Alexander will cover Assistive Technology + Universal Design = Learning for Life.
- Christina F. Morrissey will present Communication Strategies for the Classroom.
- Melissa Silverman will provide a Self-Advocate Perspective on her education and life after finishing school.

Who should attend? General educators, special educators, paraeducators, administrators, counselors, therapists, and parents. Topics addressed are relevant for students from preschool through high school level.

Cost: Only $25 including:

- Continental breakfast, deli lunch buffet, and snacks.
- Flash drive full of materials.
- Continuing education credit for some teachers and therapists. (See website for details.)
- An exhibit hall with resources for educators and parents.
- Free raffle and door prizes. (Must be present to win, and prizes are not redeemable for cash.)

Registration: Registration will open on September 10, 2015, at <http://www.techniquesforsuccess.org/>. Space is limited so early registration is encouraged!
